Academics

The purpose of the academic curriculum is to provide individuals in college with abundant opportunities for experience in many vocational, cultural, intellectual and creative fields, so that the things which each student can do well may in action itself become apparent.

Clubs and Honoraries

The school must represent the best features of many of the institutions in our culture which are educative: presenting exhibits as a museum does; explaining scientific concepts as a planetarium does; documentary problems as the theatre does. Students who participate in this action are those who belong in the extra-curricular activities. Scholarship, leadership and willingness to work are a part of these individuals who strive for these features for Hillsdale College.

Spring Sports

Spring means the arrival of warm weather and sunshine, usually. Spring of 1961 arrived, but not as anticipated. Snow, sleet, rain and slush invaded the atmosphere and covered the baseball diamond, track, golf course and tennis courts, dampening everything but the spirits of the athletes. Remaining true to form they continued their practice and training inside the field house. Discouraged by the fact that their home runs only hit the rafters and fell into foul territory; a little disappointed that their 440 record of thirty seconds could not be counted; fading hopes as their golf ball went through a window; anger when their tennis racket hit a water pipe; our spring heroes continued on.

Golf

Hillsdale's golf team came up with an impressive season this year. Auseon, Fischer and Anderson were low men. This year's captain was John Savarino and Dr. Charles Greenshields is the coach. The golf squad has been selected the outstanding NAIA team in the state and was invited to participate in the National NAIA Golf Championships.

The Dales finished the season this year with a record of 9 wins and 8 losses. The team traveled south for their annual trip and came up with three wins and five losses. Coach Williams gave all of the pitchers a chance to throw, as the main objective of the trip was to find out what players would be of help when the team came north and started their regular schedule.

Activities

Character means something different to each individual but as a whole it is the very life of the individual. The best way to develop good character is to test it and to let it act in the type of setting and situation in which one's character is expected to act. A school where students have the chance to face and solve real problems is preparation for greater understanding of their future lives and the lives of others. The aim of a character-building school is to encourage participation in many activities — as many activites as there are roles in life. To excel in and profit from these activities is the best way to strengthen the student's preparation for his life character.

Education is the greatest benefit to man. Through this phase he is able to understand the whys and wherefores of his generation. It is the duty of each civic minded person to promote education in his community. It is the duty of the graduating senior to participate in the planning phases of education. It is the job of the graduate to replace the fading generation with a new one; one that will rise to become competent in coping with the various problems of his community, his state, his nation and his world.

For proof, see the new Newport, Chrysler's lowest priced beauty. Enter with ease and settle into a special driver's seat that snugs up shoulder high for full support. Enjoy roomy five-foot-wide seats. Relax inside Unibody, the single-unit body that's twice as strong as old-type body-frame designs. Quiet as a den. Unibody's sprayed with over 90 lbs. of sound deadener, padded with enough material to make a 10′ x 10′ rug. And you'll like Newport economy with a brand-new Firebolt V-8 that can cover over 500 miles on a tankful of regular gas. Road-test the Newport. Then check the price label.

The Pit: site of the 1961 Winona; scene of hard work and headaches; place of joy and happiness as the final deadline is off in the morning mail.

This Year: a good one and one to be remembered; one deserving the most careful attention and utmost consideration in its recall; one in which each and every happening should be recorded down to the smallest detail.

The Winona: a pictorial review of the past year; a record of events of interest to all; informative to those not connected with the college; an aid to remembering for those who lived the year.

The Staff: hard working and loyal; complainers — yes, quitters — no; long hours of thinking, planning, typing and copy reading; early morning hours to meet deadlines; trying to make the most and the best of all events; hoping for a successful book; asking nothing for their work but hours of enjoyment to the reader.

Special Thanks: to Alex, Bert James and Sue Douglas — the master minds of what you see, the workers that coordinated the book.

The Reader: the most important critic, the person to whom the book is dedicated.

May you receive as much pleasure from reading it as I have had in preparing the Winona of 1961.
